

Study About Autism in African American Families

A graduate student at the University of Houston is conducting a study to understand the beliefs and experiences of Autism in the Black/African American community

The study requires your one time participation

Requirements:

1. Parents or guardians who identify as Black or African American, and
2. Have a child diagnosed with an Autism Spectrum Disorder to complete an online questionnaire, and the option to participate in a group meeting with other Black/African American parents of children with Autism Spectrum Disorders.

Participants can enter to win one of five $25 gift cards to Target.

Individuals who choose to participate in the group meeting will be compensated for parking, and childcare will be provided.
